Zheng Qinwen Wins the China Open, Then Sings Karaoke

From: BBC Tennis Mined: 2026-10-13 3 min read

Tennis star Zheng Qinwen made history in Beijing. She became the first Chinese woman to win the China Open. She beat Mirra Andreeva without losing a set.

After winning, the 24-year-old fell to the court. Then, after her speech, she sang karaoke for the cheering home crowd!

"To win here in Beijing in front of my home crowd is one of my dreams," Zheng said.

It had been a hard year for her. She had elbow surgery last year and had not won a title in two years. This was the sixth title of her career.

Andreeva, who is 19, was ahead early in both sets, but Zheng fought back. Zheng won the match with an ace, a serve her opponent could not touch.

"Finally, after so many losses, I [found] my fire again," Zheng said.

Zheng is set to jump 31 spots to number 23 in the world rankings.

Word Treasure

set -- A part of a tennis match; players must win sets to win the match.
karaoke -- Singing along to music, often in front of other people.
surgery -- When doctors operate on the body to fix a problem.
ace -- A tennis serve the other player cannot touch.
rankings -- A list that shows which players are doing best.

Background you need

The China Open is a big tennis tournament held every year in Beijing, the capital of China. In tennis, players win points, games and sets, and winning enough sets wins the match. Athletes who get hurt often need time to heal and train before they can win again.
