Cade Mower Wins His Battle on The Voice and Moves On

From: Billboard Mined: 2026-10-27 3 min read

Cade Mower is singing on The Voice. On October 26, the 35-year-old singer from Bluffdale, Utah, won his Battle round. He sang Wondering Why by the Red Clay Strays with Brayden Howell, 19, another singer on Team Riley.

Mower first made all four coaches turn their chairs in the Blind Auditions with Zach Bryan's Something in the Orange. Coach Riley Green put Mower and Howell together for the Battle, and Carly Pearce helped Team Riley as a guest adviser.

Before the show, Mower talked about how hard it is to be away from his wife, Lindsey, and their two children while filming. He said winning the Battle would bring him one step closer to making the sacrifice worth it, and he called his wife his biggest fan.

Afterward, Kelly Clarkson praised his voice, calling his vocals insane. Queen Latifah said she wished Mower had joined her team, and she also praised Howell. Green picked Mower to move on, saying Mower already knows what he does well. Mower now goes into Cut Week as one of seven left on Team Riley.

Word Treasure

Battle -- A round in the show where two singers sing together and one moves on.

adviser -- A person who gives helpful advice.

sacrifice -- Giving up something you care about to reach a goal.

vocals -- The singing part of a song.

Background you need

The Voice is a singing contest where coaches listen to singers and pick them for their teams.

In the Blind Auditions, coaches turn their chairs when they like a singer's voice.

In a Battle round, two singers from the same team sing together, and their coach picks one to move on.

Break it down

WHO: Cade Mower, a singer from Bluffdale, Utah, and Brayden Howell, another singer on Team Riley.

WHAT: Mower won his Battle round and moves on to Cut Week.

WHERE: On the television show The Voice, as part of Team Riley.

WHY: Because Coach Riley Green picked Mower to move on, saying Mower already knows what he does well.
