

Earth, Wind & Fire: The Band That Wanted to Change the World!

From: NPR Music Mined: 2026-06-08 3 min read

Have you ever heard a song that made you want to dance and feel happy all at once? That's the magic of Earth, Wind & Fire! This band started way back in the 1970s, and their music is a mix of R&B, funk, soul, and jazz. A new documentary on HBO, called "Earth, Wind & Fire (To Be Celestial vs That's the Weight of the World)," tells their incredible story. The band's founder, Maurice White, had three big rules: make music for everyone, help people grow, and change the world. His brother Verdine, who plays bass, says Maurice's vision was "spot on." One of their biggest moments came in 1974 at the California Jam music festival. They played in front of a huge crowd, and drummer Ralph Johnson remembers, "We were thoroughly embraced. They loved what we did." Singer Philip Bailey says Maurice was like "the pilot of the plane," guiding the band to success. Even though the group split up in 1983 and later got back together, they still tour today. The members say their legacy is both "humbling and inspiring." So, if you want to see how music can bring people together and spread joy, check out this documentary. It's a celebration of creativity, friendship, and the power of a good beat!

Word Treasure

R&B -- Short for rhythm and blues, a style of popular music that mixes soulful singing with strong beats.

funk -- A lively type of music known for its thick, groovy sound and strong bass lines that make you want to dance.

soul -- A heartfelt style of music that comes from gospel and blues, full of emotion and powerful vocals.

jazz -- A creative style of music with improvisation, where musicians often make up new melodies on the spot while playing together.

documentary -- A movie or TV program that tells a true story about real people, events, or topics.

legacy -- What a person or group leaves behind after they are gone -- their achievements and the memories people have of them.

Background you need

Earth, Wind & Fire was one of the most popular bands of the 1970s and 1980s, known for smash hits like 'September' and 'Boogie Wonderland'.

Maurice White, the band's visionary leader, originally trained as a drummer and loved blending African sounds with Western pop music.

The band was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 2000, a big honor that shows how much they changed music forever.

Break it down

WHO: The band Earth, Wind & Fire, led by founder Maurice White.

WHAT: A new documentary on HBO tells how the group mixed different styles of music and followed White's three rules to bring people together through joy.

WHERE: Formed in the United States, with a breakout performance at the California Jam festival.

WHY: To show that music can be a powerful force for connecting people, helping them grow, and even changing the world.

Why it matters

Their story shows you that with creativity and teamwork, you can spread happiness and make a real difference -- maybe even with your own hobby or talent.

Test what you remember

1. What kind of music does Earth, Wind & Fire play?

- ☐ (A) Only rock
- ☐ (B) R&B, funk, soul, and jazz
- ☐ (C) Country and folk
- ☐ (D) Classical music

2. Who started the band Earth, Wind & Fire?

- ☐ (A) Verdine White
- ☐ (B) Philip Bailey
- ☐ (C) Maurice White
- ☐ (D) Ralph Johnson

3. What important concert did the band play in 1974?

- ☐ (A) Woodstock
- ☐ (B) The California Jam music festival
- ☐ (C) Live Aid
- ☐ (D) The Monterey Pop Festival

4. What was one of Maurice White's three big rules for the band?

- ☐ (A) Play only for famous people
- ☐ (B) Make music for everyone
- ☐ (C) Never perform outdoors
- ☐ (D) Write songs only about love

5. In what year did the band split up before later coming back together?

- ☐ (A) 1970
- ☐ (B) 1974
- ☐ (C) 1983
- ☐ (D) 1990

6. How does the band describe what they have left behind with their music?

- ☐ (A) Simply relaxing
- ☐ (B) Humbling and inspiring
- ☐ (C) Mostly forgotten
- ☐ (D) Only for dancing

Answer key (try the quiz first!): 1: B 2: C 3: B 4: B 5: C 6: B

Questions to think about

1. Music Lover: Fans love Earth, Wind & Fire because their upbeat songs make you feel happy and want to dance. The band's positive energy has stood the test of time, still lighting up parties today.

2. Inspirational Leader: Maurice White's idea that music should be for everyone and help people grow shows how artists can be leaders. His vision proved that pop music can have a deeper purpose beyond just entertainment.

3. Sticking Together: Even though the group split up in 1983, they later reunited and still perform. This shows that strong friendships and a shared mission can overcome disagreements and keep a legacy alive.

MY THOUGHTS (at least 20 words):