Teenager Hannah Klugman Wins Her Biggest Tennis Title Yet

From: BBC Tennis Mined: 2026-10-26 3 min read

British teenager Hannah Klugman has won the biggest tennis title of her life so far. The 17-year-old beat French player Elsa Jacquemot 6-2 6-4 in the final of the Lexus Wrexham Open. It was a W100 title, and Klugman did not lose a set all week.

Klugman is the second British player in a row to win the Wrexham title, after Mimi Xu won last year. She is also the youngest British player to win a singles trophy at W100 level or higher.

Jacquemot is ranked world number 157. Klugman missed her first two chances to break serve, but she kept going and soon took control of the match. Jacquemot fought back to 5-4, but Klugman served out the win at her second chance.

Afterwards, Klugman said, "I was shaking afterwards, but just so, so happy and proud of myself again." There was more British success in doubles, too: Freya Christie and Eden Silva beat Hiroko Kuwata and Ankita Raina 6-2 6-3.

Word Treasure

W100 -- A level of professional tennis tournament.

singles -- A tennis match where one player plays against one other player.

doubles -- A tennis match where two players on each team play together.

break serve -- When the player receiving the serve wins that game.

ranked -- Placed in an ordered list that shows how players compare with each other.

Background you need

The Wrexham Open is a tennis tournament where players compete to win matches and take home a trophy.

In singles, one player plays against another, and the winner of the final match wins the title.

A player can build confidence by winning match after match through the week, leading to the biggest win of her career so far.

Break it down

WHO: British teenager Hannah Klugman and French player Elsa Jacquemot, with Freya Christie and Eden Silva also winning in doubles.

WHAT: Klugman beat Jacquemot in the final to win a W100 title without losing a set all week.

WHERE: At the Lexus Wrexham Open.

WHY: Because she kept going after missing her first two chances to break serve, took control of the match, and served out the win at her second chance.

Why it matters

It shows that keeping going after missed chances can help you reach a goal you care about.

Test what you remember

1. Who won the final against Elsa Jacquemot?

(A) Freya Christie
(B) Mimi Xu
(C) Eden Silva
(D) Hannah Klugman

2. What was the score in the final?

(A) 6-2
(B) 6-2 6-3
(C) 6-2 6-4
(D) 5-4

3. Who won the Wrexham title last year?

(A) Freya Christie
(B) Mimi Xu
(C) Hannah Klugman
(D) Elsa Jacquemot

4. How many sets did Klugman lose all week?

(A) Every set
(B) None
(C) Two sets
(D) One set

5. Which player was part of the winning doubles pair?

(A) Freya Christie
(B) Hiroko Kuwata
(C) Elsa Jacquemot
(D) Ankita Raina

6. What did Klugman say after the win?

(A) She had lost a set all week
(B) She was shaking but happy and proud of herself
(C) She had won the doubles title
(D) She was unhappy with her win

Answer key (try the quiz first!): 1: D 2: C 3: B 4: B 5: A 6: B

Questions to think about

1. Hannah Klugman: She said she was shaking afterwards but was happy and proud of herself.

MY THOUGHTS (at least 20 words):