New Scholarships Will Help Foster Care Students Go to College

From: PBS NewsHour Mined: 2026-11-08 3 min read

Melania Trump on Saturday announced new scholarships for students at Louisiana State University who grew up in foster care. It is a team-up between LSU and her 'Fostering the Future' program. 'This achievement will give young people from foster care an anchor of stability, a strong educational foundation and a chance to build a wonderful life,' she said at an event with LSU President Wade Rousse. Trump and LSU raised more than $7 million in private gifts for the scholarships. MMR Group Inc., a company in Baton Rouge, gave $5 million, and other LSU Foundation donors gave more than $2 million. There are 14 students in the program at LSU and nine at Alabama, part of 100 students at 26 schools this semester. The first lady later went to the LSU-Alabama football game at Tiger Stadium, where players wore 'Be Best' patches. 'Fostering the Future' grew out of her 'Be Best' campaign from President Donald Trump's first term. She began working on foster care after that term ended in 2021.

Word Treasure

foster care -- Foster care is when children live with another family for a while because they cannot live with their own family.

scholarships -- Scholarships are money given to help students pay for college.

anchor -- An anchor is something that holds a ship steady, and here it means something that gives a person a steady start in life.

foundation -- A foundation is the strong base something is built on, like the base of a house.

donors -- Donors are people or groups who give money to help a cause.

campaign -- A campaign is a big planned effort to reach a goal.

Background you need

Foster care is when children who cannot live with their own family for a while live with another family instead.

A scholarship is money that helps a student pay for college, so students who grew up in foster care can afford to go.

'Fostering the Future' is a program that works with schools to support these students.

Break it down
